COLLECTED MONEY

But Did Not Return it to His Employer.

Peter Tesch, charged with embezzlement, when arraigned in police court, this morning before Judge William A. Arnold, entered a plea of guilty to embezzling $15 from Isaac Bernstein, a bank street butcher. Tesch had been employed by Bernstein a short time and resigned some time ago. It was then found that he had collected money from a number of Polish customers and failed to turn the same over to his employer, who charged that Tesch was short about $15. Tesch claimed that his wife was ill and he needed the money. The court accepted Tesch's plea and imposed a fine of $10 and costs, which friends of the accused raised and paid. Judge Arnold then told the man that he should consider himself lucky not to be bound over to the grand jury, and doubtless sentenced to state prison.

John Boucher, arrested Wednesday evening on a warrant issued on complaint of Mrs. Abraham Prag, who lives in the same house with Boucher at 227 Valley street, was before the court to answer to breach of the peace.

John Prag claimed that Boucher swore at him with his brothers and sisters over the house and the Prag family. Several days ago Prag complained to the police and Boucher resented this and said that he would sue Prag. There was also some trouble over the sale in the cellar. When Boucher appeared in court, Thursday morning, he was represented by Attorney Thomas J. Kelley, who asked for a continuance until Saturday morning.

This was granted by Judge Arnold.

Officials Busy; No Bond Taken.

At the time of Boucher's arrest on Wednesday evening he desired to be released on bail and had a security bondman all ready to furnish security. But Judge Arnold, when called up and up that a bond was desired, claimed he had an engagement and referred the police authorities to Judge James A. Shea. Judge Shea, who was in court in quest of Judge Shea, but when called up and up that a bond was desired, claimed he had an engagement and referred the police authorities to Judge James A. Shea.
